Dear Naomi,

On behalf of the Pocatello Community Concert Association I am writing to tell you what a great musical experience we had on April 18 with Aram Basmadjian.

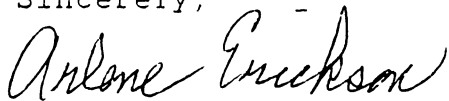

One of our members said he had tears in his eyes through the Star Spangled Banner and the Handel Concerto in F major. All comments were positive and enthusiastic after the concert and I'm still receiving calls and comments today such as "I feel such a loss for those who should have been there and weren't" from a local instructor of organ and "How soon can we have him in Pocatello again?" from others who represent church and organization organists. What an inspiring learning experience for them it was. The next morning I had a call to determine where his next concert was so some friends could go. Arizona was a bit far away, but the interest and intent was there. Another caller today requested his address so she could order a tape to share with her students.

It was immediately obvious that he is a very talented musician and then added to that was the variety of his repertoire to demonstrate his skill and the versatility of his instrument. The audience was intensely interested in his explanation of the organ--an instrument of mystery to most.

From his first comments to the audience he had the audience captivated by his personality and wit. The entire atmosphere was warm as two way communication passed across the auditorium. After the concert, members were delighted to be able to greet him personally in the foyer.

I am enclosing a copy of the review of his concert in our local newspaper.

Sincerely,

Arlene Erickson, Secretary
